COUNCIL REPORT

Topic: League of Minnesota Cities – Land Use Incentive

---

Background Information: Land Use claims account for approximately 19% of all liability claims paid in the League of Minnesota Cities Insurance Trust (LMCIT). The Land Use Incentive program reward Property/Casualty program member cities that successfully complete online training about land use. Qualifying member cities earn a savings of as much as $3,750 per land use claim. Cities that do not meet the training requirements will pay a greater rate for each land use claim.

Several individuals took this training in 2015. The following people will need complete the online course:

- One more Council member;
- Planning Commission Chair;
- One more Planning Commission member.

The Course takes only about 45 minutes to complete. Zoning Specialist Bittner will register participants for the course and it can be completed at home on your personal computer. The registration fee will be paid by the City.

Council Member Seils participated in this training in 2015 while on the Planning Commission and the League recognizes this as completed training. Chair Hallan and Planning Commission Member Larson will participate in this training. Staff believes this would be an educational opportunity for Mayor Tayloe and requests he volunteer to complete this course.
